

Scientific writing

In the words of Angelika Hofmann: “Clear communication is a requirement, not an option, for a good scientist. Without sound communication skills, scientists stand little chance of publishing their work, obtaining funds, or attracting a wide audience when giving a talk. Even the most promising discovery means little if it cannot be communicated successfully.” Join us as Dr Jean du Toit shares tips and techniques for writing in Science. It will be a one-hour online session via MS Teams.
